Prepare. Plan. Create.

Welcome YouScheduler friends and supporters,

We appreciate you for connecting with YouScheduler. YouScheduler provides a service for students to achieve their full potential and institutions driven insight to build the best experience possible for their students and faculty. It is a startup company founded and run by two students at the University of New Hampshire aiming to unlock the world of college course analytics. With an efficient software, YouScheduler's suite allows students to prepare, plan and create their desired course schedule. YouScheduler is able to help students increase their success and provide institutions data-based insight to enhance learning in higher education.

The YouScheduler team in combination with our supportive mentors and advisers, aim to enhance higher education. Special thanks to the University of New Hampshire Entrepreneur Center for providing YouScheduler the resources to expand as a company and continue to grow in becoming a leader contributor in software as a service to enhance higher education across the nation.

Transforming User Experience

With the fall semester only weeks away, the YouScheduler team sought to ensure a user-friendly website and web-application for students, faculty, and administration. The team focused their efforts primarily on adding and improving features both on the YouScheduler website as well as the application itself. On the website, software developers added a privacy banner for users to agree to cookies and a blog to upload articles on a single page. In the background of the website they improved dynamic website generation to simplify the addition of other schools on the platform as well as created an industry-grade automated testing suite using selenium. On the web-application, software developers added support for an ICS calendar download to be imported into a personal computer and resolved errors when saving a PDF schedule.

The improvements made to the website and application will ensure a new, effective, and friendly user experience. As we move into the semester the YouScheduler team looks to continue to capitalize on the user experience and ensure the best possible features and development for our clients and users. Best of luck to students and faculty with the start of the fall semester!
